Decorate a wine cellar, bar area, or kitchen wall with this charming set of twelve vintage French wooden wine crate labels. Crafted in France circa 2000, each rectangular wooden panel was originally part of a wine shipping crate and features the name of a distinguished Bordeaux château, along with its appellation, vineyard illustration, and vintage year.

The collection includes twelve different wine estates: Château Labégorce, Les Hauts du Tertre, Château Les Arromans de Garde, Château Lalande-Borie, Château L'Ortolan, Blaissac, Le Cloître du Château Prieuré-Lichine, Château Gazeau, Château Trianon, Château Coutelin-Merville, Château Maucaillou, and Château Meyney.

Each panel displays traditional French typography, château illustrations, and vineyard insignias, with some featuring the original wine classification and bottling information. The natural wood grain, warm honey-colored finish, and varied lettering give the collection an authentic French wine country character.

The vintage wooden labels are in excellent condition commensurate with age and use, retaining their original printed designs and natural patina. Arrange all twelve in a symmetrical grid to create an impressive wall display, or hang them individually throughout a wine cellar, tasting room, or home bar. A wonderful decorative collection for wine enthusiasts and lovers of French vineyard heritage.

Dimensions: 13"W x 7"H (each panel).
