This elegant Lalique crystal sculpture depicts two doves gently touching beaks, their wings partially outstretched in a graceful gesture of affection. Executed in frosted and clear crystal, the birds are beautifully modeled with soft, rounded bodies and finely detailed wings, creating a delicate interplay between satin-finished surfaces and polished transparency. The sculptural composition rests on a circular clear crystal base, giving the piece stability while enhancing the luminous quality for which Lalique is renowned. The underside bears the Lalique Paris label and is engraved “Lalique Society of America 1993,” indicating a commemorative edition produced for members of the Lalique Society. The refined execution and romantic symbolism are characteristic of Lalique’s enduring Art Deco–inspired aesthetic, reinterpreted in late 20th century production. The crystal remains in excellent condition. A timeless decorative accent, ideal for a vanity, bedside table, desk, or as a meaningful gift symbolizing love and partnership. Dimensions: 6”W x 2.75”D x 3”H.
