Created in England and attributed to Francis Wheatley (1747-1801), the oil on panel depicts a young shepherdess attending her sheep and lambs in a pastoral landscape. The colorful art work is dressed in the original carved gilt wood frame. It is further embellished with a provenance sticker in the back which reads "Edwin Hulme bought 1843". Manchester England. The painting is in excellent condition with soft 18th century colors. Francis Wheatley (1747 in London – 28 June 1801) was an English portrait and landscape painter. Listed in the Benezit. Measures: 10"W x 11"H.
