Gracefully shaped to fit into a corner, this antique French Louis XV console table combines delicate wood carving with a richly veined marble top. Crafted in France circa 1780, the triangular table is built of solid oak and features a warm, honey-colored patina that highlights the natural grain of the wood.

The shaped apron is embellished with finely carved scrolling foliage, delicate C-scrolls, and central cartouche motifs, reflecting the fluid Rococo ornamentation characteristic of the Louis XV period. A single slender cabriole leg extends from the center front, terminating in a carved scroll foot. The console is topped with a beautifully veined rouge marble slab featuring contrasting white veining and a molded edge.

Designed specifically for corner placement, this space-saving antique table would make a distinctive addition to an entryway, hallway, living room, or powder room.

The Louis XV corner console is in excellent condition commensurate with age and use, retaining a rich oak patina and attractive marble surface.
