This impressive antique refectory table was crafted in France circa 1890. Built from solid walnut wood, the substantial three-inch-thick top is pegged and accented with diamond-form metal inlays, adding both visual interest and structural integrity. The surface reveals a richly aged patina with hand-worn distressing, bearing the marks of generations of use. The base features boldly scrolled trestle-end supports, joined by a robust cross stretcher and anchored by molded shoe feet. Additional metal insets at the base echo those on the top, creating a cohesive and balanced design. Measuring 98.25 inches long by 35.25 inches wide and 30.5 inches high, this generously scaled table comfortably seats eight to ten guests. Ideal for a dining or large breakfast room, this Louis XIII style farm table combines practical utility with timeless antique character. Excellent condition commensurate with age and use.
