

19TH CENTURY ENGLISH JACOBEAN CARVED OAK GATELEG DROP-LEAF TABLE WITH SIX LEGS

$2,800

SKU: 252-296
Stock: N/A
Categories: Dining & Breakfast Tables

Crafted in England circa 1860, this versatile oak gate leg table is designed in the Jacobean Revival style, characterized by bold baluster-turned legs, a sturdy box stretcher base, and a functional drop-leaf form. The classic gateleg mechanism allows the table to transition effortlessly from a compact console to a generous oval dining surface. When fully extended, it measures 58" wide by 46" deep, while the closed configuration measures 18" wide by 46" deep, making it ideal for both everyday use and space-saving storage. The warm oak top displays a rich patina with desirable wear patterns, reflecting generations of use. Each swinging gateleg supports the leaves with smooth operation, ensuring stability. This fine example of antique English craftsmanship could serve as a dining table, breakfast table, or as an elegant console when closed. Excellent condition consistent with age and use.

© Country French Interiors