Crafted in France circa 1880, this elegant antique umbrella and cane stand reflects the refined taste of the Aesthetic Movement. Built in turned hardwood and stained to imitate natural bamboo, the stand features graceful faux-bamboo uprights and lively spindle work. The open gallery is designed to hold umbrellas, canes, and walking sticks, while a removable zinc drip tray below catches water and protects the floor. The stand rests on a shaped wooden base raised on bun feet, giving the piece both stability and a balanced architectural silhouette. Rich honeyed tones, crisp turning, and its original drip tray give this antique umbrella stand wonderful character, making it a practical and decorative accent for an entryway, mudroom, or covered porch. Excellent antique condition commensurate with age and use. Dimensions: 28.5" W x 10.25" D x 44.5" H
