This elegant antique French Louis-Philippe desk armchair was crafted in walnut, circa 1860, and exemplifies the refined yet restrained aesthetic of mid-19th-century French furniture. Designed with a curved wraparound back and gracefully scrolled arms, the chair offers both visual balance and comfortable support, making it well suited for use at a writing desk, library table, or as an accent chair in a study or bedroom. The solid walnut frame is finely constructed and rests on turned front legs with saber rear legs, all retaining a warm, rich patina developed over time. The seat is upholstered in red leather, secured with decorative brass nailhead trim, and displays gentle wear consistent with age and use, enhancing its authentic antique character. The chair is in excellent condition commensurate with age and use, with sturdy construction, well-preserved woodwork, and a beautifully aged leather surface. Elegant yet practical, this antique Louis-Philippe armchair blends timeless French design with everyday functionality and remains a versatile piece for both traditional and transitional interiors. Dimensions: 23.5” W x 21” D x 31.5” H Seat height: approximately 18”
