This elegant antique French Louis-Philippe wall or floor mirror features a tall, narrow rectangular form standing just under five feet in height, framed in carved and gilt wood. The restrained molding, softened corners, and subtle bead-and-reel inner edge are characteristic of the Louis-Philippe style, favoring balanced proportions and understated refinement over heavy ornamentation. The gilt surface presents a warm, time-softened patina with gentle wear that enhances its authentic antique character. The mirror retains its original glass, displaying light foxing and natural silvering variation consistent with age and use. The original wood backing and hanging wire remain intact, underscoring the piece's integrity and careful preservation. In excellent condition commensurate with age and use, this antique Louis-Philippe mirror is ideal for a bedroom, dressing area, hallway, or powder room. Its slender vertical proportions and five-foot scale bring light and depth to an interior while maintaining the timeless elegance associated with classic 19th-century French design.
