Crafted in France circa 1870, this elegant antique Louis Philippe wall mirror features the classic rounded rectangular form characteristic of the period. The frame is decorated with finely engraved crosshatch motifs along the outer band, creating subtle texture and visual depth. A delicate gilt beaded molding surrounds the inner edge, beautifully framing the original mercury glass plate. The mirror retains its original mercury glass with light age spotting and gentle patina consistent with its age, enhancing its authentic antique character. The silver frame displays a warm, softly aged finish with natural wear that highlights the engraved decoration and refined molding details. With its generous proportions and timeless silhouette, this antique French mirror would make a beautiful accent in an entryway, powder room, bedroom, or above a console, adding both light and classic French elegance to the space. The mirror remains in excellent condition commensurate with age and use. Dimensions: 29.25"W x 1.5"D x 39.5"H
