Crafted in Provence, France circa 1880, this elegant antique Louis XV piano stool features a finely carved walnut frame with a warm, rich patina. Raised on graceful cabriole legs ending in classic escargot feet, the structure is adorned with delicate floral carvings at the knees and a shaped apron embellished with hand-carved foliate and flower motifs on all sides.

The round seat is upholstered in deep green leather with a softly gathered edge, offering both comfort and a refined contrast to the warm wood tones. Designed for functionality as well as style, the stool retains its original adjustable mechanism; the seat lifts and lowers smoothly via a central screw system, extending approximately four inches to accommodate varying heights.

The antique stool is in excellent condition commensurate with age and use, with minor wear to the leather consistent with time, adding to its authentic character. Ideal for use at a piano, vanity, or as an occasional seat in a study or living space, this piece brings both charm and practicality to any interior.
