Place this elegant antique étagère in a living room, study, or bathroom for both display and function. Crafted in France circa 1870, the freestanding oak shelving unit is designed in the Louis XVI taste, featuring four open tiers supported by slender fluted columns. Each corner is crowned with carved finials, adding a refined architectural detail to the clean, neoclassical silhouette.

The shelves provide ample space for displaying books, ceramics, or decorative objects, while the open design keeps the piece light and versatile. The frame rests on tapered legs, reinforcing its balanced proportions and classic styling. The antique étagère is in excellent condition commensurate with age and use, and adorns a beautifully rubbed grey painted finish with a softly aged patina, enhancing its depth and character. A versatile and decorative piece, equally suited for a curated display or practical storage.
