Crafted in France circa 1870, this elegant antique side table exemplifies the refined neoclassical design of the Louis XVI period. Built of richly patinated mahogany, the rectangular table features a white marble top surrounded by a delicate pierced brass gallery with gracefully curved corners and decorative raised sections.

The table is fitted with a single drawer decorated with two circular brass pulls and a finely cast brass escutcheon. The drawer retains its key and lock and features traditional dovetail construction. The apron is embellished with gently curved side panels, adding elegance to the architectural design.

The table stands on four slender, tapered and fluted legs ending in brass sabots. A shaped lower shelf provides additional storage or display space while enhancing the overall symmetry. The warm mahogany finish contrasts beautifully with the white marble and gilt brass accents.

The Louis XVI style table is in excellent condition commensurate with age and use, retaining a rich wood patina and attractive antique character. Both decorative and functional, this versatile piece would make a wonderful addition to an entryway, hallway, living room, or bedroom, serving as a side table, occasional table, or bedside stand.

Dimensions: 29"W x 13"D x 35"H.
