Capturing the peaceful atmosphere of the French countryside, this large antique oil painting portrays a charming pastoral scene with a cow standing in a shallow stream and a young boy fishing beneath the trees. Painted in France circa 1860, the composition reflects the Romantic and Realist traditions of 19th-century French landscape painting, celebrating the beauty and simplicity of rural life.

At the center of the composition, a brown and white cow stands quietly in the water, its head turned toward the viewer. To the right, a young barefoot boy wearing a dark hat, vest, and trousers sits on a grassy bank beneath a tall birch tree, holding a fishing rod. In the distance, additional cattle graze in a secluded clearing, adding depth and character to the tranquil woodland setting.

The landscape is beautifully rendered with mature trees, dense foliage, and rich autumn colors ranging from golden ochre and warm brown to deep forest green. Soft light filters through the branches, illuminating the winding stream and creating delicate reflections on the water. The artist's skillful brushwork and textured paint surface bring remarkable detail to the animals, foliage, and surrounding vegetation.

The antique oil on canvas is presented in its original carved wood frame, featuring a deep blackened finish accented with gilt moldings and a decorative gold leaf outer border. The contrasting finishes complement the painting's warm palette and lend the composition a distinguished 19th-century appearance.

The painting is in excellent condition commensurate with age and use, with rich colors and beautifully preserved details. A new hanging wire has been installed on the back for easy display. This substantial pastoral artwork would make a wonderful addition to a country home, ranch, hunting lodge, study, or traditional living room.
