Bring sculptural color and texture to a tabletop or mantel with this elegant antique French barbotine jardinière, crafted in Montigny-sur-Loing circa 1860. The oval vessel is richly modeled with intertwined root-form handles and a naturalistic surface, showcasing high relief blossoms including soft pink roses, blue forget-me-nots, and budding florals amid leafy garlands.

The dark, variegated ground provides a striking contrast to the delicately hand-painted flowers, enhancing the lifelike quality and depth associated with early Impressionist-influenced ceramics from the region. The composition wraps fully around the body, creating a dynamic, three-dimensional presentation from every angle.

This antique ceramic planter is in good condition commensurate with age and use, with minor losses to a few petals consistent with its history. A charming and highly decorative piece, ideal for a console, dining table, or as a centerpiece filled with fresh or dried arrangements.
