Bring timeless elegance to your dining room with this exceptional set of eight Louis XIII-style dining chairs. Handcrafted in Spain circa 1880, each chair is built from solid oak and features a tall arched back and square seat, both upholstered in rich, hand-patinated brown leather. The leather is secured with large, hand-forged iron nailheads along the edges, adding a refined yet rustic touch characteristic of the French Renaissance revival period. The sturdy oak frames exhibit finely turned legs joined by double "H" stretchers for additional stability and visual appeal. These stately chairs combine comfort, craftsmanship, and understated grandeur, ideal for a formal dining room, wine cellar, or château-style interior. The set remains in excellent condition commensurate with age and use, with a warm walnut-toned patina that enhances their authenticity and charm. Measurements: 17.75" W × 18.25" D × 43.75" H
