Bring subtle charm and texture to a wall with this antique French faux bamboo mirror, crafted circa 1900. The rectangular frame is constructed of finely turned wood carved to imitate bamboo canes, complete with stylized nodes and capped finials, a design reflecting the enduring influence of exoticism and Japonisme in French decorative arts . The warm honey-toned finish enhances the naturalistic effect and highlights the crisp lathe work throughout.
The mirror retains its original glass with light age-appropriate spotting, adding character and authenticity. The back features its original wood panel and hanging chain, allowing for easy wall installation. The piece can be displayed vertically or horizontally depending on preference.
In excellent condition commensurate with age and use, with a rich, time-softened patina and minor wear consistent with its antique nature. A versatile size, ideal for a powder room, layered gallery wall, or above a small console where it adds warmth without overwhelming the space.
Dimensions: 15.75"W x 1.25"D x 19"H
