This elegant antique floor fixture was crafted in southern France circa 1920. Forged in the Gothic tradition, the candelabra lamp features a tall iron stem with a subtle twist at the center, rising to a four-light cluster with decorative bobeches and hanging iron rings. Each torch-style arm is newly wired and fitted with candle sleeve covers that echo the look of old wax tapers, blending historic character with modern functionality. The base is constructed with three sturdy, hand-forged legs ending in delicately scrolled feet, lending balance and architectural presence to the piece. It is presented in excellent condition commensurate with age and use, and adorned with a rich black patinated finish. A convenient foot switch completes the design for effortless operation. Measures: 18" W x 18" D x 64" H.
