Crafted in France circa 1920, this charming wall-hanging platter showcases the artistry of early 20th century French ceramics. The oval dish is decorated in brightly glazed majolica, featuring a central mottled brown and green ground framed by a cheerful yellow border. Sprays of hand-painted blossoms and green foliage are interspersed with delicate blue ribbon accents, while the rim is modeled to resemble bamboo, lending both texture and whimsy. The reverse retains its original glaze and is fitted with a metal hanging wire, making the platter ready for immediate display. The richly colored glazes retain their vibrancy, highlighted by a glossy finish that enhances the raised relief. In excellent condition commensurate with age and use, this decorative ceramic wall plate brings a burst of French charm and would make a delightful addition to a kitchen, breakfast room, or dining area. Measures: 13" W x 10.25" H.
