Categories: Glass & Barware

Add rustic elegance to your barware collection with this charming set of three vintage silverplated brass goblets, each mounted on a finely cast deer hoof base. Likely crafted in Germany circa 1920, these unique drinking vessels feature flared tulip-shaped cups with a warm golden patina, supported by intricately detailed bronze-tone stag hoof mounts. The bases mimic the natural texture of fur and antler, lending a sense of woodland character and artisanal craftsmanship. Ideal for serving aperitifs or digestifs, these whimsical yet sophisticated goblets are perfect for a cabin bar, hunting lodge, or nature-inspired interior. Light oxidation and surface patina add to their vintage charm, while the sculptural quality of the hoof feet makes them a standout decorative accent when not in use. A delightful gift for outdoorsmen or collectors of unique bar accessories. Each measures: 4"W x 2"D x 5.25"H
