This elegant antique Venetian wall mirror, crafted in Italy circa 1920, features a refined octagonal form surrounded by etched and beveled glass panels in the manner of Murano craftsmanship. Each segment is decorated with delicate hand-engraved floral and foliate motifs, accented by beaded edges and faceted detailing that beautifully capture and reflect the light.

The shaped crest is adorned with a stylized leaf and scrolling motif, adding height and decorative presence. The mirror retains its original mercury glass plate, showing desirable light oxidation and age spots that enhance its authentic character and depth.

Constructed with a wooden backing, the piece remains sturdy and well-preserved. The combination of etched decoration, soft patina, and sculptural silhouette makes this antique mirror both decorative and functional, ideal for a powder room, entry, or layered wall arrangement.

The wall decor is in very good condition commensurate with age and use, with small losses to the silvering and minor wear to the mirrored elements consistent with age.
