Hand carved in Brazil, this elegant rock crystal bowl features a deep circular form surrounded by a sculptural scalloped exterior, giving the piece the appearance of a blooming flower. The thick crystal walls are beautifully polished, revealing the natural veining, inclusions, and internal formations within the stone that catch and refract light from every angle. These organic striations are characteristic of natural quartz and add depth and visual movement to the piece. The heavy bowl has a luminous clarity and substantial presence, making it both decorative and functional. The rounded lobed carving along the exterior adds a soft architectural rhythm while emphasizing the artisanal workmanship required to shape such a dense material. Versatile in use, this antique Brazilian rock crystal bowl works beautifully as a centerpiece on a cocktail table, as a refined vide-poche on an entry console, as a soap container in a powder room, or as a decorative object on a desk or bookshelf. The piece is in excellent condition commensurate with age and use, with natural inclusions consistent with carved rock crystal. Dimensions: 7.5" diameter x 4.25"H
