This impressive suite of twelve Louis XIII style dining armchairs was crafted circa 1980. The chairs reflect the bold, architectural character associated with 17th century French design, featuring tall rectangular backs outlined with large brass nailhead trim and substantial scrolled arms with rounded handholds. The solid oak frames display a warm, medium-toned finish with visible grain throughout. Each chair stands on sturdy legs joined by traditional H-form stretchers with a shaped front stretcher, reinforcing both structure and period-inspired styling. The proportions are generous and comfortable, making them ideal for a grand dining table or conference setting. The seats and backs are upholstered in a richly woven tapestry fabric decorated with large-scale floral and foliate motifs in muted tones of blue, sage, rose, and cream. The upholstery complements the strong oak frame and enhances the classic French aesthetic. The set is in excellent condition commensurate with age and use. The frames are sturdy, and the upholstery remains well preserved. A rare opportunity to acquire a complete set of twelve matching Louis XIII style armchairs, offering immediate impact and cohesive design for a large dining room.
