Elegant and refined, this antique Louis XVI-style mirror was crafted in France circa 1860. The rectangular frame is carved from solid wood and finished in hand-applied gilt, featuring a simple stepped profile with a delicate band of foliate motifs along the inner molding, hallmarks of the neoclassical Louis XVI aesthetic. The mirror retains its original mercury glass, beautifully aged with subtle sparkling oxidation and light spotting consistent with its mid-19th century origin. The back is fully paneled in wide wooden planks, secured with period joinery and updated hanging hardware, allowing for both vertical and horizontal installation. Measuring 26.25 inches wide by 39.25 inches high, this antique mirror presents in excellent condition with minor wear and patina appropriate to its age. An authentic piece that brings classical French symmetry and timeless elegance to a variety of interiors, whether placed above a mantel, console, or powder room.
