This vintage French garden crane sculpture adds a charming touch of wildlife to an outdoor setting. Crafted in Normandy, France circa 1950, the tall bird is constructed of molded concrete and iron, combining naturalistic details with the rustic character of traditional French garden ornaments.

The graceful crane is depicted standing upright on two long, slender iron legs, with realistically shaped feet secured to an oval concrete base. Its rounded body, elongated neck, and gently curved head are finished in a soft off-white painted patina, contrasted by a long reddish-brown beak and small dark eyes. The wings and tail feathers are carefully modeled and highlighted with black painted accents, creating a striking contrast against the pale body.

The sculpture retains a beautifully weathered finish with subtle paint wear and surface variations acquired through years of outdoor exposure. Its slender silhouette and lifelike proportions make it an appealing decorative accent for a garden, courtyard, patio, or beside a swimming pool. The oval base provides stability while allowing the bird to be displayed independently among plants or other garden ornaments.

The vintage French crane is in excellent condition commensurate with age and use, retaining its original character and richly weathered painted finish.
