Crafted in France circa 1970, this pair of mid-century folding garden chairs combines clean, functional design with enduring charm. Each chair features a sturdy hand-forged iron frame with gently scrolling arm supports and splayed legs joined by arched stretchers for stability. The seats and backs are composed of slatted wooden planks, finished with a soft patina that highlights their natural mid-century character. Practical and stylish, the chairs fold flat for convenient storage and transport, a hallmark of French outdoor furniture design. The curved wooden armrests and contoured slat seats offer comfort, while the combination of iron and wood lends them a timeless, versatile look suitable for both indoor and outdoor settings. In excellent condition commensurate with age and use, these mid-century French chairs bring vintage authenticity to gardens, terraces, patios, or sunrooms.
