This charming set of three vintage porcelain wall platters was crafted in France circa 1950 in the Limoges tradition. Each decorative plate features a beautifully hand-painted pastoral scene, capturing the tranquility of the French countryside through colorful landscapes, delicate brushwork, and carefully detailed figures.

Two of the platters depict peaceful rural scenes along the banks of a river. In one composition, a young shepherdess tends her flock in a sunlit meadow, surrounded by verdant fields, tall trees, and a softly colored sky with birds flying overhead. The second portrays a shepherd with his sheep beside a winding stream, framed by lush foliage and distant trees. Both scenes are rendered in harmonious shades of green, blue, golden yellow, and warm brown.

The third platter illustrates a hunter accompanied by his dog walking along a woodland path. Tall trees, golden autumn foliage, and soft sunlight filtering through the forest create a wonderfully atmospheric composition. The detailed landscape and rich earthy palette complement the two pastoral scenes.

Each porcelain platter features a distinctive square form with clipped corners and gently raised, subtly scalloped edges. The glossy glazed surfaces enhance the rich colors and painterly details, while the complementary compositions create a cohesive decorative grouping.

The three vintage platters are in excellent condition commensurate with age and use, retaining their vivid colors and glossy finish. Each is fitted with a hanging wire on the reverse for easy wall installation. Perfect for a French country kitchen, dining room, breakfast room, or hallway, the set can also be displayed on shelves or plate stands.
