This elegant pair of antique French stools, crafted circa 1880, embodies the graceful curves and refined ornamentation of the Louis XV style. Each stool features a beautifully carved giltwood frame with a warm, luminous patina, showcasing delicate floral motifs, scrolling acanthus leaves, and finely detailed cabriole legs terminating in scrolled feet. A beaded trim outlines the apron, adding a subtle decorative rhythm to the richly carved structure.

The generously proportioned seats are fitted with removable cushions upholstered in a deep rose velvet, finished with soft gathered corners that enhance their plush, inviting appearance. The cushions are filled with down, offering exceptional comfort while maintaining a tailored silhouette that complements the refined frame.

Ideal at the foot of a bed, in a dressing room, or as elegant accent seating in a salon, these stools bring both function and decorative sophistication to any interior: excellent condition commensurate with age and use.
