This refined pair of antique French footstools was crafted circa 1880 and showcases the elegant curves and lightness associated with the Louis XV style. Each stool features a gracefully shaped mahogany frame raised on cabriole legs with subtle carved detailing, creating a sculptural yet understated silhouette. The stools have been newly upholstered in smooth tan leather, carefully finished with decorative brass nailhead trim that follows the softly contoured apron. The warm tone of the leather complements the rich, time-softened mahogany patina, while the fresh upholstery enhances comfort without detracting from the antique character of the pieces. Compact and versatile, these antique footstools are ideal as ottomans, fireside seating, or accent pieces in a living room, bedroom, or dressing area. They work beautifully placed as a pair or separated within a space. Both stools are in excellent condition commensurate with age and use. Dimensions (each): 13.5"W x 11.5"D x 7"H.
