This elegant pair of antique French nightstands was crafted circa 1920 and reflects the graceful curves and refined ornamentation of the Louis XV style. Each cabinet is carved from walnut and crowned with a beautifully shaped marble top featuring rich brown tones with soft white veining. The serpentine front and molded edge of the marble echo the fluid lines of the carved case below. The façade showcases a single drawer over a cabinet door, both framed with delicate foliate and scrolling motifs. The door panels are accented with raised carved cartouches and open to reveal an interior lined in marble, adding both practicality and refinement. Fluted corner posts transition into slender cabriole legs terminating in subtle scrolled feet, giving the pair an elegant, airy stance. The shaped backs rise into decorative tiered shelves with carved crests, offering additional display space for small objects, clocks, or devotional items. The walnut displays a warm and rich patina, highlighting the fine grain and hand-carved details throughout. This antique pair would make exceptional bedside tables, or serving as refined accent cabinets in a bedroom or sitting room. Dimensions (each): 15.75"W x 15.75"D x 45.25"H
