For a sophisticated bedside table, look no further than these French Louis XVI bedside tables. These tables are the perfect size to flank a queen or king sized bed in a master bedroom. Crafted in France circa 1960, the oak nightstands embellished with brass accents sit on four tapered legs with a bottom cabinet, and features one drawer and a single door made to look like two separate drawers all in a lighter patina. The drawer is shallow and deep, and would create the perfect amount of storage space in a bedroom. One nightstand features a porcelain lined inside. The surface is further embellished with a marble top in a beige color pattern. The vintage side tables, in the manner of Jansen, are reminiscent of linear, empire-style furniture design. Both tables are in excellent condition commensurate with age and use Measure: 19.75"W x 13"D x 32"H.
