Crafted in Italy circa 1970, this elegant pair of antique Baroque style wall sconces combines sculptural carved wood elements with gracefully scrolling iron candle arms. Richly decorated and beautifully proportioned, the fixtures reflect the theatrical elegance and ornamental character of traditional Italian decorative arts.

Each sconce features a classical urn-shaped backplate crowned with a dramatic carved leaf motif and embellished with flowing swags along the sides. The elongated vase-shaped body tapers toward a turned pedestal base ending in a rounded finial, creating a refined architectural silhouette. Three gracefully curved iron arms extend outward from each fixture, terminating in decorative floral bobeches designed to accommodate taper candles. Delicate scrolling details and ornamental flourishes further enhance the elaborate composition.

The sconces retain a beautiful two-tone finish combining softly patinated antique silver leaf with warm gold leaf accents. The gently rubbed surfaces highlight the carved details and lend the pair an appealing aged character.

The Italian wall sconces are in excellent condition commensurate with age and use. Ideal for flanking a mirror, doorway, or fireplace mantel, they bring romantic Baroque character to a traditional interior.

These are candle sconces and are not presently wired for electricity. They would require professional wiring for conversion to electric lighting. Candles are not included.
