Decorate a garden or poolside setting with this charming antique-style figural fountain. Crafted in America circa 1980, the composition features a playful boy standing and lifting a large scallop shell, poised to pour water toward a kneeling girl below, her hands raised in anticipation. The sculptural group captures a lighthearted moment of childhood, rendered with soft, naturalistic modeling and expressive faces.

Cast in solid bronze and executed in two separate elements, the figures display fine detailing throughout, from the gently defined hair and facial features to the realistic treatment of the bathing garments. The surface is finished in a rich verdigris patina, beautifully weathered to complement an outdoor environment and enhance the sculptural depth. The fountain remains in excellent condition commensurate with age and use, with desirable patination and expected wear consistent with garden placement. A delightful focal point for a courtyard, garden, or near a pool, offering both movement and narrative charm.

Combined weight: 110 pounds (boy 62 lbs, girl 48 lbs).
